None of Them Tentifies Against Mrs. Lurbers, but Her Letters to Some of Them Are Produced-Women Appear Against Her and the Judge Grants a Divorce, Five co-respondents were named in the action ought for divorce by Ernest H. Luebers, Jr., against Louise Vandewart Luebers, which was on trial in the Special Term of the Supreme Court before Judge Russell yesterday. The

Mrs. Emma Newman testified yesterday that she lived at the Cliff House at Sea Cliff in the summer of 1892, and that Luebers and his wife were there. There was marked intimacy between the defendant and one Sherman White, and on two occasions she saw Mrs. Lucbers go into White's room to stay there several hours. On the first occasion she told her daughter about it, but the latter would not believe it, and watched for herself and saw the second visit.

Elizabeth A. Newman, the daughter, then took the stand. She said that she had known the defendant for a long time, and had been at her wedding. When she saw the defendant go into White's bedroom she sat down on a trunk in the hallway to watch. After about two hours White came out and went down stairs. He returned with another man, and both en tered the room. Finally the stranger and then White left, and she heard Mrs. Luebers say she did not know what she would do if her husband found her out. When Mrs. Luebers came out she tried to avoid the witness, and looked flurried. Later in the day Miss Newman taxed her with her conduct, and Mrs. Luebers said that she went into White's room to get a book. The witness said that it did not take two ours to get a book, and the friendship was broken then and there.

Margaret Knapp, another young woman, testified that she had met the defendant and the plaintiff at a boarding house four years ago. Luebers was a travelling man and away from home a great part of the time. During these absences one Gilber Sutton was in the habit of calling on the defendant in her room. In March, 1894, the wit-ress accompanied the Lueberses to the train when the husband was going away, and Mrs. Luebers went at once to a telephone office and relephoned to "Bert" Sutton: "Come up to-What was Sutton's answer?"

"What was Sutton's answer?"

"You bet I will."

The defendant had told the witness that "Hert" often stayed all night in her room, and west away early in the morning. While the witness and the Lueberses were staying one summer at Bergen Point, the defendant was very intimate with a man named Wilmerding, and told the witness that Wilmerding had hugged and kissed her. She was also very intimate with a man named Harry Fuller, who was at the same hotel, and when the witness and the defendant afterward went to Essex, tonn, Fuller followed them there, and he and defendant were frequently in a hammock together. Fuller also called on the defendant in this city. The counsel was about to ask the winess what she knew about the defendant's conduct with one John Shane, when Judge Russell said he would like to ask the witness a few guestions.

"What were your relations with this woman," he asked. "How did you happen to associate with her when you knew all these things?"
"I could hardly believe them," said the witness.
"Even after she admitted to you that Sutton had stayed in her room all night?" The witness seemed flurried at this.
"If your Honor is satisfied with the evidence we will not proceed any further," remarked il was the witness that I was not satisfied th." said the Court. "You need question her with, said the Court. "You need question her no further."

A colored servant then testified that she had been in the habit of carrying notes between shane and the defendant.
Counsel handed up a lot of letters written by Mrs. Luebers, which he said contained admissions of guilt. Judge Russell read some parts of them, and asked:
"Was the defendant a morphine eater?"
Counsel said that he had no knowledge of that fact.

fact. "Well, her letters read as if she was," said the Court.

A letter to Shane was then handed to the Judge. It was written by the defendant. When Judge Russell had read it through he ordered that the testimony be written out, and said that he would grant the decree.

The lewyer's clerk who served the papers on Mrs. Luchers makes affidavit that she said that none of the co-respondents would appear against her, "or, if they do, they are curs." None appeared.

ACCUSED OF DEPRAVING A GIRL. The Sight of a Church Causes the Girl to Tell the Priest.

A tall, stout girl, of light complexion, with round, rosy cheeks and very light bair, was the principal witness against an alleged procuress girl, who was Helena Nutt, 15 years old, testifiel that Mrs. Matilda Robbins of 1,722 Park had, after hiring her as a servant, inand that for two or three weeks past she had The girl had her baptismal certificate from St. Alphonsus's Church, showing that she was born on Dec. 25, 1879, to Louis Nutt and Matilda old. Ascording to the girl's story, her parents died in 1891, and she was cared for by friends until a few months ago, when she went to Mrs. Lydon's home for friendless working women, which is a servants' agency, at 2.412 Second avenue. The influences there are Roman Cathelic, and Helena Nutt attended the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in East 115th street. About three weeks ago Mrs. Robbins, who lives in the top flat at 1.722 Fark avenue, came to Mrs. Lydon's and engaged the Nutt girl by the day to do housework. Within three days, the girl says, Mrs. Robbins told her she could make money in a much easier way, and succumbing to the woman's representations, she received a man brought to the flat by her employer.

At the end of last week, while passing the Mount Carmel Church, which she had neglected attending since going to work for Mrs. Robbins, she was overcome at the thought of her sin. She went to the Rev. Father Anthony and told him of her life. He advised her, and then notified Mrs. Lydon of what had happened. Mrs. Lydon went to the Society for the Frevention of Cruelty to Children, and Mrs. Robbins's arrest on a warrant followed.

The prisoner said she was a native of Austria, 34 years old, a housekeeper by occupation. She denied the girl's story. She was held in $1,000 hall for trial at Special Sessions, and was liberated on a bond executed by Katie Offner, who give her occupation also as housekeeper of 317 fast Seventy-second street, the security being the tremises at 217 East Third street.

The girl was committed to the care of the Gerry society.

Antonio Caldaro, charged with the murder of Michael Pascinto of 24 Mulberry street on Aug. 4. at 345 West Broadway, was convicted of manslaughter in the second degree yesterday, before Judge Fitzgerald, in the General Sessions. Caldare said that the stabbing was done in selfdere said that the stabbing was done in selfdefence. He had criticised Pascinto's singing and the latter ran after him in a hallway, grabbed him by the throat, put his knee into the pit of his stomach, and was throttling him, when he succeeded in getting out his knife, o'retted it, and stabbed Pascinto.

Judge Fitzgerald ordered Assistant District
Alterney Osborne to hand Caidaro the knife and let him give a practical illustration of how the stabbing was done. Signor Morosal, the CANTONI TIRED OF BEING SUED.

Seeks to Enjoin Elsa C. Forster Perms neatly from Trying to Get Damages, Whether or not Elsa C. Forster shall be per mitted to prosecute an action for $170,000 against Salvatore Cantoni is now the subject of injunction proceedings begun yesterday before Judge Gildersleeve in the Special Term of the Superior Court. The Cantoni-Forster case is one to which much publicity has been given for years. Elsa Forster was the wife of a Dr. Brennan, whom she left, so she says, to become housekeeper for Salvatore Cantoni, the wellknown Italian banker. In 1887 she was divorced from Dr. Brennan, two years after she had left him.

Thereafter, she claims, she lived with Cantoni, whom she knew as Salvatore Fortuny, and bore him six children, three of whom are now living. In 1892 they separated, and she brought suit against him for $250,000 for breach of promise. Previous to this, he says, he had made a settlement covering all claims. The suit, which was brought through Howe & Hummel, was compromised on payment of $1,000 to cover the transportation of the Forster woman and her children to San Francisco, and a furin the Harlem Police Court yesterday. The | ther payment of $5,000 after she arrived there. This payment, she declares, Cantoni or his agents endeavored to withhold. In March of $170,000, $100,000 for damages for breach of promise and $70,000 for services rendered, such promise and $7.0.000 for services rendered, such services being the performance of the duties of housekeeper from 1885 to 1892, for which she asserts that she was to receive $5,000 a year and the support of her children. Cantoni set up a general denial, and in January of this year brought a suit in equity and obtained a preliminary injunction restraining Elsa Forster from prosecuting any action against him. The present motion is to make this injunction permanent.

The first witness called yesterday was Lawyer C. A. H. Pratt, Jr., through whom the original suit was brought, and he testified to the settlement of that. Then Reginald S. Durrant, chief clerk for Howe & Hummel, testified that the firm brought suit for $250,000 in behalf of Elsa Forster, not knowing of the former settlement, and that he drew up an agreement for her, stipulating that on receiving $5,000 from Cantoni she would not harass or annoy him further. It is here that the dispute comes in Lawyers Charles Lex Brooke and Louis E. Bomeister, for Mr. Cantoni, say that this was a settlement of all claims which the woman might have upon their client. Lawyer S. H. Randall argues that a suit cannot be regarded as an harassment or annoyance, and that his client has a right to bring such suit. He acknowledges the payment of the $6,000. The agreement in writing was put in evidence. Mr. Durrant further testified:

"At the time of the settlement Mrs. Fortuny, or Forster, authorized me to inform Mr. Cantoni's lawyer that in consideration of $6,000 she would never begin any suit against Mr. Cantoni's lawyer that in consideration of $6,000 she would never begin any suit against Mr. Cantoni's Laddaw, representing the Bank of California, who swore to the payment by that bank of $5,000 to Elsa Forster. The hearing goes on today. Mr. Cantoni was not in court, but Elsa Forster was there with her children and several friends.

BRADFORD'S TRIAL POSTPONED. self Ill by Long Fusting.

The trial of "Doc" Bradford of 514 Third avenue, the alleged counterfeiter, which was set for hearing yesterday before Judge Brown, in the United States Circuit Court, was adjourned indefinitely owing to the doctor's indisposition. Counsel for the prisoner told the Court that his client was suffering from rheumatism. The fail physician reported that Bradford was suffering chiefly from weakness, the result of his refusal to take food. The doctor also stated that Bradford had a great aversion to appearing in court, and had offered him a bribe of $5 to report him as too ill to appear.

While playing on the street yesterday afternoon George Murray, a four-year-old boy, whose parents live at 1,726 Park avenue, was run over and killed by a milk wagon driven by August Schlott of 140 East 124th street. The boy did not see the wagon and ran head-foremest into it. One of the find wheels passed over him. Schlott was arrested and held in $2,000 bail by Magistrate Flammer in the Har-lom Court.

JOHN MULLINS ACQUITTED.

FAILURE OF THE NEW JERSEY STATE HOUSE CASES.

All the Men Accused as the Result of the Senate Investigation, Save Superintend-ent Ford, Have Now Been Acquitted, TRESTON, Oct. 21. - The trial of John Mullins, the Jersey City furniture dealer, charged with conspiracy to defraud the State, ended this afternoon in a verdict of not guilty. The case was given to the jury at 3:15 o'clock and the verdict was rendered within twenty minutes. When the result was announced, Mr. Mullins, with tears in his eyes, shook hands with and thanked the jurges, and then he invited them and his counsel and friends to accompany him the party.

Eugene A. Roby, a New York furniture dealer. testified this morning that the moulding used In the court rooms, for which Mullins charged 44 to 49 cents a foot, was cheap at that price and was usually sold at from 50 to 40 cents a foot. Then the defence called Mullins to the stand. He was born in England, he said, and came to this country about thirty years ago. He was employed for seven months as a laborer by the Erie Railroad; then he went to Jersey City, and for nearly three years carried a hod for masons. His next venture was at peddling picture frames, which developed into a little store for carpets and furniture. At present his busimounts to $800,000 a year. He says he has known Eugene Murphy to his sorrow.

Then Counsel Hoffman asked: "Mr. Murphy has sworn that in August, 1893, you said to him that Barney wants his divvy. Did you say that to him or to any one else?" "No. sir." "Did you ever tell him to figure up the amount Ford was entitled to ?" "No. sir." "Did you say to him that Ford was to get ten per cent, out of your sales to the State of New lersey?" "No, sir."

"Did you ever have any agreement of any kind whatever to furnish goods to Ford at an increased or exorbitant price ?" "No sir" "Did you ever agree to give Ford a part of your profits on goods sold to the State, or give the same to any one for him?" "No, sir." Prosecutor Stockton conducted the cross-ex-amination, and after making Muilins repeat the story of his life, this dialogue followed: "You had a partner, didn't you, Mr. Mullins?"

"Yes."
"Yes."
"Who?" "Daniel Moriarty."
"Who?" "Daniel Moriarty."
"Where is he now?" "I don't know."
"When did fou see him last?" "Well, I couldn't say. I believe I saw him shortly after the Senate investigation committee session."
"Where?" "In New York city."
"Where is he?" "I don't know."
"And he is of the firm of Mullins & Co.?" "I believe so."

"Where is he?" "I don't know."
"And he is of the firm of Mullins & Co.?" "I believe so."
"Where do you send him money?" "I don't send him any.
The witness said he had heard that Moriarty is in Ireland. He said he never submitted bills against the State to Ford, and did not know that Ford marked them "Correct." All his bills went to the State Comptroller and all his checks came from the State castier.

James F. Coogan of New York and Edward F. C. Young, the Jersey City banker, testified that Mullins was a man of unimpeachable integrity and his reputation as good as that of any man in Jersey City.

Capt. Holt summed up for the State. He said Barney Ford, who was jointly indicted with Mullins, and who alone could tell the particulars of their schemes, is a wanderer upon the face of the earth.

Judge Beasely followed for the defence and attacked the character of Murphy, the principal witness for the prosecution. Excludge Hoffman concluded the summing up for the defence.

They say his relatives are willing to make this good, and will do so whenever such an arrangement can be made. The charge that Ford retained money reserved from the sale of old furniture, they say, is baseless so far as intent to do wrong is concerned, as his daughter has the money in her possession in the same envelope in which it was originally received. Ford's failure to turn it over to the State was due to his becoming rattled over the talk of an investigation that was started about the end of the fiscal year, when it was customary for him to balance his account with the State. Ford is said to be in New York and anxious to make a settlement.

TENANTS WARNED TO MOVE OUT. Some of Them Stick to Mr. Ash's Building at Their Own Rick.

Tenants of the building at the southwest corner of William and Spruce streets were notified vesterday afternoon by the owner, John G. Ash. that they would have to leave the premises pending repairs that had just been begun, or remain at their peril, as the builder who was underpinning the Spruce street wall preparatory to rebuilding it feared there might be a ment, Mr. Claire and Mr. Dwyer said they did not care to move, and Mr. Ash said last night he past. The wall was then all braced up, and the work of replacing the present twelve-inch wall with a heavier one will go on.

The Spruce street wall was condemned by the Building Department after a committee or two builders and an architect had surveyed it. It had settled in the centre over the two central piers, which had worked down in the sand bank that underlies that section of the city. Mr. Ash says that the Building Department was inclined to attribute the settling of the piers to the driving of piles for the American Tract Society Building at the Nassau street end of the block. Mr. Ash had fell his building tremble when these piles were driven. When Richard K. Fox occupied the building he put some printing presses in the upper stories, and that, Mr. Ash says, caused the first weakening of the walls. The match between Sullivan and Ryan was arranged there, in a room on the first floor.

INSURANCE CO. REPORTED.

Has the New York State Mutual Fire's Unpitul Been Paid in According to Law! ALBANY, Oct. 21. State Superintendent of Insurance James F. Pierce to-day reported to the Attorney-General the New York State Mutoal Fire Insurance Corporation of New York. His action in so doing was based upon a report made to him on Friday last by Deputy Superintendent of Insurance Isaac Vanderpoel, who examined the company with a view solely of ascertaining whether the capital stock of the comin which the law requires it shall be paid. In closing his report Mr. Vanderpoel says:

"I can discover nothing from the records of the corporation which amounts to evidence of the paying in of the cash portion of its capital, as required by law. All that I have found bearing upon this point are the book entries, to which reference is made in the testimony of the which reference is made in the testimony of the company's Secretary. The affidavit of the President and secretary, made at the time of this company's incorporation, it will be noticed, certifies to the fact that no portion of the capital stock has been 'advanced to said corporation by any person, partnership, or corporation for the purpose of being used as such capital on the organization of said corporation.' As both the President and Secretary of the company now state in their testimony that the drafts drawn by the insurance company on its policy holders, who were supposed to have paid in the cash portion of its capital, have never been accepted by the persons upon whom these drafts were drawn, it must follow that the cash portion of the capital represented by these unaccepted drafts must have been advanced to the corporation for the purpose of being used as such on the organization of the corporation. If it has been so advanced, the affidavit of the company's officers is in conflict with the facts, and the provisions of the Insurance law have not been compiled with. I believe this to be the case, If it be held that that which has transpired in the alleged paving in of the cash portion of this corporation's capital is regular and proper under the law, it must yet be shown where the $40,000, the amount of this cash capital, now is. The corporation's books and records indicate that this sum must still be in the possession of the insurance company.

"I suggest that the facts in company's Secretary. The affidavit of the Pres-

"I suggest that you communicate the facts in this case in the Attorney-General, in order that he may take such action as may be necessary to make clear the fact that the capital stock of the New York State Fire Insurance Corporation of New York city has been paid in in the manner rquired by law."

In addition to these there were several bids for the contract for putting a dredge on Shinne-cock Bay and selling it to the State, which was put on as an addenda to the specifications. It will be necessary to have adredge in the vicinity to dig out the canal and to keep the channels free from the constantly shifting sands which are quickly formed into bars by the storms. To build or buy a dredge would cost the State anywhere from $3.500 to $10.000. To get one in through the channel and into the bay would also cost a large sum. It was thought best, therefore, to let the contractors, who were bidding on the general work, and who would collapse before the underpinning was completed.
